DETAILED ACTION

Allowable Subject Matter

1. Claims 1-16 are allowed.

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: The closest prior art found on record was Wellons (US 7,318,046). Wellons discloses a "computer-based promise option advisory module" that receives account data and calculates and displays "promise options" (Wellons, abstract). A user of Wellons' system can accept one of the displayed promise options, such as a single promise, long-term promise, or a deferred payment arrangement promise, and the accepted option may be applied to a collections customer (Wellons, abstract, col. 5, lines 17-25). As an alternative to selecting one of Wellons' displayed promise options, the user can choose another arrangement to settle the account, such as providing debit card information and an amount to put on the debit card (See Wellons, col. 17, lines 29-40 and FIG. 11, step 62.)

However, while Wellons discloses using a debit card to satisfy an account, Wellons does not disclose that the initial balance on the debit card is based the balance of the account being settled. Rather, Wellons simply discloses that a collections customer with an existing debit card can be asked to use the debit card to settle the account, rather than entering into a repayment arrangement using one of the promise options. Therefore, Wellons does not teach or suggest "a credit card account with an initial balance based on the delinquent account balance" as recited by independent.

Independent claims 14-16, although of different scope, include recitations that are similar to those discussed above with respect to independent claim 1. Thus, for at least the same reasons as discussed in connection with independent claim 1, Wellon fails to disclose all of the subject matter and the arrangement of the subject matter recited in Applicant's amended independent claims 14-16.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
